The employment selection process for the City of Union Police Department includes but is not limited to a written entry level examination, a psychological examination, and a thorough background investigation including a polygraph examination and drug screen. All information reported on your application will be verified during the polygraph examination. The selection process also includes an oral interview process and a pre-employment physical examination. It is the policy of the City of Union Police Department not to exclude candidates from re-application, re-testing, re-consideration or re-evaluation. Candidates, over time, may acquire new knowledge, skills and/or abilities. Additionally, new job tasks and/or technologies may surface, selection components may change, and/or hiring freezes may preempt hiring for a period beyond the life of the prevailing eligibility list. Any or all of these events may be cause for re-testing and/or re-evaluation of candidates.
